

Static Memory Allocation

1) Memory allocates variables permanently, till program executes or function call finishes.

2) Done before program execution.

3) Stack

4) Less Efficient

5) No Memory reusable

Dynamic Memory Allocation

Memory Allocates variables only if program unit gets activated.

Done during program execution.

Heap

More Efficient

Memory reusable & can be freed wherever required